

Meeting of Presidium to clear speculation

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Supreme Soviet will convene Dec. 28 in a session that may clear up the mystery surrounding the health of President Yuri Andropov who has not been seen publicly since August.

Western diplomats said it would be inconceivable that Andropov not appear at the meeting if he is exercising leadership.

If Andropov does not appear, it is considered possible that the government would announce he is unable to perform his duties or name an interim or new leader.

A well-informed Western official said that Andropov is a "very sick person" and "not able to perform his official functions."

The official would not specify the nature of Andropov's illness but said the Communist Party chief "may well recover."

A one-sentence announcement by the official Tass news agency said: "The Presidium of the U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet has decided to convene the ninth session of the tenth U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet in Moscow on Dec. 28."

Andropov, 69, who is officially suffering from a cold, was last seen at a meeting Aug. 18 with nine visiting U.S. senators. He missed the Nov. 7 military review in Red Square commemorating the Bolshevik Revolution, the most important holiday on the Soviet calendar.

His absence has touched off speculation and rumors, the most frequent being that he was suffering from a serious kidney ailment and might have had a transplant. However, officials, when asked, have said only that he was suffering from a cold.

According to a Soviet source familiar with government proceedings, Andropov will almost certainly appear at the meeting of the Supreme Soviet, or parliament.

"The Supreme Soviet is more important because he must review the past year and announce plans for the next," he said.

Andropov was unanimously elected president at the last session of the Supreme Soviet in mid-June. At that time, Andropov appeared to be in frail health with a shuffling gait and trembling hands. His seat was fitted with microphones, apparently so he would not have to walk the few steps to the podium.

The Supreme Soviet meeting, according to Western officials, will most likely focus on economic plans for the next year, the fourth in the current five-year plan. Western diplomats have said it will be the real test of Andropov's ability to further his economic policies, which included a crackdown on labor discipline and corruption.

For Heritage Mt. loan

Money sought

Provo City has moved a step closer to securing a $10 million federal grant, which it intends to loan to the developers of the proposed Heritage Mountain ski resort.

The city's application for an urban development action grant (UDAG) has held up under preliminary inspection at the Denver regional office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and will soon compete with other grants from across the country, said Ron Madsen, Provo executive director of redevelopment.

The Denver office examined the jobs that would be provided by the ski resort, the tax contribution to the community and the financial commitments of backers of the project.

Though the application is now in competition, it does not mean the examination process has ended or that the application may still be subject to rejection. HUD will continue to scrutinize the application, said Madsen. "It's good news that we're still there."

Madsen said the city can still strengthen its application until Dec. 12 with increased evidence of the project's viability.

If the UDAG is granted, Heritage Mountain is expected to receive $180 million in financing from Investment Mortgage International, Inc., a San Francisco firm. In its UDAG application, the city points out that IMI Vice President Harold N. Cox stated that IMI has "been able to find acceptable funding for the project conditional upon the receipt of a $9,929 million UDAG."

Also in the application the city states, "It is felt that this project cannot go forward but for the injection of a UDAG."

Gary Williamson, president of Wilderness Associates, developers of the ski resort, said that Heritage people spoke with HUD officials last summer and were told that their project has a good chance of winning a grant.

If the city receives the UDAG, they will loan the money to Heritage Mountain for a "negotiable" rate of interest, Madsen said.

Vatican sexual guidebook result of 20-year research

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican issued its first guidelines on sex education Thursday, saying parents have a "basic right and duty" to teach their children about sex and the instruction should condemn premarital sex, masturbation and homosexuality.

"Educational Guidance in Human Love," a 36-page booklet published by the Sacred Congregation for Catholic Education, also reiterated the church's opposition to premarital sex, artificial birth control, masturbation, homosexuality and drugs.

The guide endorsed "education for chastity," saying it was necessary to guide the "sexual instinct to the service of love and of integrating it in the development of the person."

Sex outside marriage, the guide said, is "a moral disorder," adding that no "moral justification" can be given to homosexual acts.

"Sex education, which is a basic right and duty of parents, must also be carried out under their attentive guidance, whether at home or in educational centers chosen and controlled by them."

The guide, drawn up with the help of educational experts and consultants, is aimed at "the positive and prudent sex education" that the Second Vatican Council called for 20 years ago, the introduction said.

"The church is firmly opposed to an often widespread form of imparting sex information dissociated from moral principles," the booklet said.

Premarital chastity, the booklet said, is essential to a stable marriage. "Future spouses must know the profound significance of marriage, understood as a union of love for the realization of the couple and for procreation," the guide said.

In cases of both masturbation and homosexuality, the guide advised the family and teachers to look for causes before trying to repress the behavior.

LDS temple dedicated, from old Mayan style

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will dedicate a new temple in Mexico City today, which will serve the 300,000 members of the church in Mexico.

President Gordon B. Hinckley, second counselor to LDS Church President Spencer W. Kimball will conduct the dedicatory exercises for President Kimball who is too ill to attend.

Church officials say the new structure is a modern adaptation of ancient Mayan architecture. White cast stone was used to construct the face of the temple. Rising above its 152-foot tower is a golden statue of the Angel Moroni.

The Mexico structure will be the 26th temple the church has set in operation. There are 16 other temples now planned or under construction in various parts of the world.

The seven-acre site of the temple is situated in the Hragon area of Mexico City. Over 105,000 tourists have toured the temple since it opened in November, said a church spokesman.

General authorities and local leaders from the church will be in attendance at the dedication ceremony.

Y netters vie at regionals

Members of the BYU women's tennis team will vie for the championship of the NCAA Central Division Tennis Regionals in Oklahoma City today and Saturday.

Players from 12 different schools will compete in both singles and doubles in a single elimination format in the two-day tournament which is hosted by Oklahoma State.

BYU netter Jennifer Stoker is seeded No. 7 in the 10-state tournament. Other BYU players to participate will be Leslie Craig, Lesley Fox, Lynn Hogenauer, Helen Christiaanse, Valerie Jarecki and Susan Hunter.

The BYU doubles teams of Craig/Christiaanse, Stoker/Hogenauer and Fox/Hunter are also scheduled to compete.

Raiders trounce Chargers; 42-10

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The Los Angeles Raiders, behind Todd Christensen's three touchdown receptions, scored 42 straight points Thursday night to trounce the San Diego Chargers 42-10 and clinch the AFC West title.

Frank Hawkins scored twice as the Raiders overwhelmed the Chargers in the middle two quarters and eliminated them from playoff competition for the first time in six years. Linebacker Rod Martin returned an interception 29 yards for another Raiders score as Los Angeles improved to 11-5 and dropped San Diego to 5-9.

Y's Hudson, Young on honor team

More honors have been given to BYU's Gordon Hudson and Steve Young. The tight end-quarterback duo have been named to the Football Writers Association of America first-team All-America squad.

For Hudson, it was his second year on the team, while Young made his first appearance on the list as the second leading vote-getter behind Nebraska running back Mike Rozier.

Young and Hudson were recognized earlier by the American Football Coaches Association and Walter Camp All-America squads.

Y fencing team to participate in Boise tourney

The BYU fencing team will open its 1983-84 season this weekend at Boise State University against fencing teams from Utah State, Salt Lake City, Washington, Montana and Oregon.

Included in the 12-member BYU team are veteran competitors Rick Herlinger and Mark Stasinos.

"We have always done well in competition at Boise State and plan to continue doing so," said Herlinger.

Spikers to face ASU first-round NCAA action

MARTY PERRY
Staff Writer

The Sun Devils and the BYU Cougars will meet at 8 p.m. today at the Smith Center for the first round of the NCAA All-Tournament. The winner of the match will advance to the West Regionals at Stanford.

The Sun Devils are ranked 16th nationally, and the Cougars are ranked 17-16 into the match. The record is misleading as the Sun Devils' Western Collegiate Athletic Conference play is the best volleyball in the country. Other members of the conference include Stanford, Southern Cal and San Diego, which are ranked in the top 20.

The Cougars enter the match with a 28-6 record and won the High Country Athletic Conference capturing 29 conference matches in the last three years.

The Cougars and the 18th-ranked Sun Devils have many common opponents this season being top-ranked Hawaii. ASU is ranked 17-16 into the match.

The Cougars will be displaying strength in the net, who is the defending WAC champion. The Sun Devils are the defending WAC champion and both teams met Nov. 25 at Salt Lake City in a match where the Utes needed one point to win the match, but the Cougars won 3-2.

defeated Hawaii in the UCLA tournament, and Hawaii defeated the Cougars in the same tourney.

Of BYU's six losses, four have come to top 10 teams. ASU has lost 11 times at the hands of top 10 teams.

The last meeting between the two schools was in 1981 when the Sun Devils defeated the Cougars in four games. Prior to that meeting, BYU had won seven straight over the ASU squad, as the Cougars lead the series eight to two.

Because it is an NCAA-sponsored event, a $2 admission fee will be charged for students, faculty, staff and youth and the general public charge is $3.

BYU had four players honored by the HCAC this past week as Madge Ferreira and Karin Knudsen were named first-team all-conference, an honor ASU also received last year. Also receiving accolades were Raelyn Hoglund and Lisa Monson as Hoglund was named to the second team and Monson made honorable mention.

BYU Coach Elaine Michaelis was also named HCAC Coach of the Year for the second straight season. Michaelis has led the Cougars into post-season play 12 times in the last 14 years.

Utes in hot match

Utah's champion in the 100-meter butterfly, Darryl Johnson, WAC champion in the 1600-meter free-style, and Paul Johnson, who won the 200 butterfly in 1981.

Utah's threat will come from Scott Medford, who won the 100 and 200-meter backstroke and 200-meter individual medley last year. Pat Hayes, the defending champ in the 200 butterfly and Jeff Antimmaro.

Last year when the two teams met, Utah edged the Cougars 57-54. The last time BYU was victorious against the Utes was in 1979.

But Powers is confident in his team's abilities — present and future. The team is made up of mostly freshmen, sophomores and juniors with only two seniors. "This might be the start of a dynasty," Powers said.

Kerr tells students to have own creed

By LAURA CHILDERS
Staff Writer

People should develop a personal creed and do the job at hand as though they are going to be doing it for the rest of their lives, said BYU's Executive Vice President Thursday.

Rolf Kerr, who has served at BYU since 1980, said he lives by a belief held by his father, who said, "If people will do the job at hand better than anyone else, sooner or later their efforts will be recognized and appropriately rewarded."

"There is no universally right way to plan your life," Kerr said. Some will choose to structure their lives and others will be content to accept situations as they come, but he warned that those who structure their lives not to become so preoccupied with goals that they forget to perform current tasks well.

If people will do whatever they are doing well, other opportunities will follow, he said.

"Take every advantage to pick up every credential you can," Kerr said. In job situations where people are equally capable, the person who has the most credentials will usually get the job.

He said there is value in people developing a personal creed—identifying the principles they want to live by.

"The value of a personal creed is to establish for yourself a kind of plan that will help you see where you are going," he said.

Kerr listed the 20 items included in his personal creed. They were, for example: "Succeed at home first," "Seek and merit divine help," "Don't be afraid of making a mistake," "Hustle while you wait," and "Listen twice as much as you speak."

Kerr suggested that students make a list of important principles in their lives and develop a creed for themselves. Items could be listed in order of priority, based on religious beliefs and personal principles.

Ordinance drafted for salary council

A Provo City councilman has drafted an ordinance calling for the formation of a new citizens group to determine raises in council and mayoral salaries.

Charles Henson, who wrote the ordinance, is calling for the establishment of a Council Advisory Committee on Mayor/Council Salaries, which will decide salary changes based on "current economic conditions, responsibilities and the total time requirements, and salaries of similar officials in cities of comparable size and complexity."

The council has submitted the draft to the city attorney's office to examine the legal language, after which it will come before the council in public meeting where they will either accept or reject the ordinance.

In early October, a short-term body called the Citizens Committee on Mayor and Council Salary Recommendations approached the council with salary changes. The committee majority recommended a 41 percent council salary increase while the minority recommended no increase.

Henson told the salary committee, "The real issue is not what the raise will be. Many of us on the council could care less. We need to reach an agreement on the process of how this is to be done in the future."

The new ordinance states that the council cannot increase but may lower salaries below the recommendation of the salary committee.

AT-A-GLANCE

The International Folk Dancers, Young Ambassadors and special guest the Dancing Waters rehearsed a lively and spectacular show at Thursday night's dress rehearsal of the 25th annual event.

Children's choir to sing in show

By MARY ALICE SALMON

A guest appearance by a children's choir will highlight two performances of the BYU A Cappella Choir's annual Christmas concert tonight and Saturday night.

Dr. Ralph Woodward of the BYU music faculty will lead the A Cappella Choir during the 8 p.m. concert in the de Jong Concert Hall. His son, Ralph B. Woodward, will direct the Salt Lake Children's Choir.

The Children's Choir will also appear with the Mormon Tabernacle Choir during this year's Christmas Day broadcast from the Salt Lake Tabernacle.

Both BYU concerts will begin with the A Cappella Choir singing "O Jesu Mi Dulcissime" by Giovanni Gabrieli, followed by "Spem In Alium Nun-quam Habui" by Thomas Tallis. According to Dr. Woodward, the Tallis piece is a remarkable one. "It is written with 40 separate vocal parts and it is rarely done because of its difficulty," he said.

The choir will then sing "Canite Tuba" by Palestrina, and "Gaudete" by contemporary Swedish composer Anders Ohrwall.

"The 'Gaudete' is a series of 10 familiar and unfamiliar Christmas carols and hymns with flute and bassoon accompaniment," Dr. Woodward said.

The Children's Choir will follow with several works and then will join the A Cappella Choir to sing "Little Star," written by the younger Woodward.

The A Cappella Choir will then perform a variety of traditional Christmas hymns and carols and several contemporary pieces including "Palm 65" by BYU composer Merrill Bradshaw; Robert Cundick's "Behold, This is the Way" from "The Redeemer"; and Dominick Argento's "Gloria."

The final number of the evening will be Malcolm Sargent's arrangement of "Silent Night."

Dr. Woodward, who holds a doctorate of musical arts in choral music from the University of Illinois, was recently honored as the 1983 Utah Music Educator of the Year and also received the 1983 Maester Distinguished Teaching Award.

"Suffer the Little Children" is the graduate project of Lisa Kirkwood, a graduate student from Provo studying directing.

"It has a significant statement to make about religious war and about children as a target of violence," Kirkwood said.

The play's representation of the Crusades contributed to her decision to present it, she said. Kirkwood learned of the influence of the Crusades during her mission to France.

"Suffer the Little Children" is open to the public and admission is free.

'Children' shows tragic crusades to halt Holy Wars

A play dramatizing the tragic children's crusades of the eighth and ninth centuries will be presented in the Margareta Arena Theater at 6 p.m. today and Saturday.

"Suffer the Little Children," by Jeffrey S. Elson, tells of the European children who, receiving "revelation" that they were to stop the Holy Wars, left their homes to march to Jerusalem. Corrupt priests placed approximately 30,000 children on ships supposedly to transport them to the Holy Land. The children who survived the journey were sold in the Eastern slave fields.

The play tells of five French children who learn of the nature of the Holy Wars and of the true love of mankind as they sail to the Holy Land, while imprisoned by the white slavers.

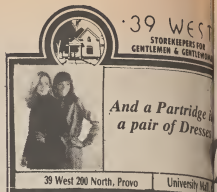

"Suffer the Little Children" is the graduate project of Lisa Kirkwood, a graduate student from Provo studying directing.

"It has a significant statement to make about religious war and about children as a target of violence," Kirkwood said.

The play's representation of the Crusades contributed to her decision to present it, she said. Kirkwood learned of the influence of the Crusades during her mission to France.

"Suffer the Little Children" is open to the public and admission is free.
